

Art Palette – 10th August 2023

August Reading Room Exhibition – Pat Crowe

I have practised the arts intermittently for two decades. Most recently, I have attended classes at Putney School of Art, while prior to this I studied fine art at Kingston University. The selection included is diverse, featuring past and present work. More recent works are derived from photographs, often serendipitous finds on the internet, and are influenced by artists renowned for their use of light, particularly Sorolla's vibrant Iberian water and sunlight, and Van Gogh's series of olive trees painted in Provence 1889.

Along with emphasising the interplay of light and colour, I have also tried to apply Peter Doig's application of paint and reflection, and Lisa Milroy's approach to capturing everyday objects in a still life setting.

Beginners' Master Class

I know that the students who took the recent master class for beginners really enjoyed it and are checking their diaries to sign up for the autumn term; here are some examples of their work:
